When Edda became ill with Parkinson's disease and Lewy body dementia, he became her devoted primary care giver until she passed away on Dec. 16, 2012.

He is survived by his daughter, Annette Dunklin, his son, Thomas Bang Dunklin, his sister, Anne Madden, and his nephew, Steve Madden, as well as his granddaughter, Eva Rose Dunklin Floyd.

He was a loving husband, father and grandfather. He was a talented musician, playing piano and percussion as a young man. He was good at everything he set his mind to. He will be missed and remembered with great love and respect.
