Returning to Darien Summer Nights concerts for the second year, the home-grown band "Wingmen" performs this Friday, Sept. 1.

Last year, Wingmen rocked Grove Street Plaza to a full house. The Wingmen are one of Darien's hometown bands, featuring Robert McMullan, Tom Travaglini, Charlie Howe, John Markham, Ray Bartone and Larry LeHan — six Darien dads holding on tightly to their day jobs but who occasionally rock the place at local bars and private parties in town.

The Wingmen performs 60s and 70s rock and pop tunes mixed with an improvisational style that keeps fans coming back for more. Bring family and friends, as this is sure to be a fun evening of music.

Darien Summer Nights is a weekly summer concert series at Grove Street Plaza downtown. Music begins at 6 p.m. and continues until 8:30.

These concerts are sponsored by Baywater Properties, Grove Street Plaza and The Darien Chamber of Commerce. Come on down, and remember – shop and dine local!
