Alfred Hitchcock: Behind the Curtain of Suspense

Tuesday, Feb. 13 at 3 p.m.

A spine-tingling look behind the scenes of The Master of Suspense's notorious classics, from "The Lodger" (1927), "North By Northwest" (1959), to "Frenzy" (1972), and the meticulous planning of them.

Orson Welles: A Turbulent and Brilliant Life

Tuesday, Feb. 20 at 3 p.m.

Radio star at 20. Toast of Broadway at 21. Hollywood helmsman of "Citizen Kane" at 25. He was Orson Welles (1915-1985), actor extraordinaire and visionary stage, and screen director who remains one of the most maligned filmmaking geniuses in history.

Fearless & Hard-Boiled: The Films of Ida Lupino

Tuesday, Feb. 27 at 3 p.m.

Although British by birth, actress/director Ida Lupino was the quintessentially American creator of tough thrillers and daring social melodramas. The only woman Hollywood director during the 1940s and 1950s, she was fearless in her tackling of difficult and explosive subjects through a series of low-budget productions (including "The Hitch-Hiker" and "The Bigamist").

Akira Kurosawa: Samurai of the Cinema

Tuesday, March 6 at 3 p.m.

Akira Kurosawa put Japanese cinema on the world map after World War II with "Rashomon" and went on to dazzle international audiences with shattering action epics ("The Seven Samurai" and "Yojimbo"), electrifying Shakespearean adaptations ("Throne of Blood") and poignant human documents ("Ikiru").
