Where's Darien headed in the future? What do town officials who pay attention to the town's problems think are the most important ones, and where is the town doing well? What new services should we have or where are we wasting money?

Get answers to these questions and more Wednesday night when Darien's town officials come to speak and answer the public's questions.

They work (as volunteers) for you, although occasionally Darienite.com and others have to remind some of them of that.

If there's a topic that hasn't been brought up at the meeting, you can ask them yourself, or bring it up at the reception half an hour before the meeting. You (normally) deserve answers.
