Darien Library has an "Escape the Room" 30-minute mystery game that children, teens and whole families can play either this coming Wednesday, Thursday or Friday. It's called "The Great Train Robbery."

Here's the library's announcement (with an update — Wednesday times have been added to the original announcement):

Oh no! You and your fellow passengers are stuck at the train depot until the mystery of the Great Train Robbery is solved. Can you work together and solve the mystery in only 30 minutes?

This special game, inspired by the Escape the Room challenges, requires creativity, teamwork, and curiosity to win.

Register each person who plans to participate in this thrilling 'Escape the Room' program. Space is limited due to the collaborative nature of this program.

Only those registered will be able to join the game.

Participants should arrive no later than 10 minutes before the program starts so they can receive the game instructions.

Darienite editor's note: As of mid-day Friday, Aug. 17, some of these slots below are full, as noted. More may be fully registered by the time you read this:
