The FBI NA has been long considered the preeminent executive training for police professionals, both here and around the world.

From the Department of Justice, Federal Bureau of Investigation:

- “The FBI National Academy, initially established in 1935 as the ‘FBI Police Training School’, is a professional course of study for U.S. and international law enforcement managers nominated by their agency heads because of demonstrated leadership qualities.
- The 10-week program—which provides coursework in intelligence theory, terrorism and terrorist mindsets, management science, law, behavioral science, law enforcement communication, and forensic science—serves to improve the administration of justice in police departments and agencies at home and abroad and to raise law enforcement standards, knowledge, and cooperation worldwide.”
