The Darien YMCA is offering a variety of day camp options to give kids an adventurous, active and healthy summer. Registration begins in early February.

Parents can choose from one of the Y's four camp programs which include a pre-school, school-age, gymnastics, or special needs program.

New this year is a selection of Mini camps. These mini camps are designed to provide child care during the first few days at the beginning of the summer and the last few days at the end of the summer.

The Darien Y will be offering preschool, school age, and gymnastics mini camps. Each of these camps will be available June 17 to 21 and Aug. 12 to 16 and have a limited number of spaces available.

“Our summer camp program includes activities that focus on children’s developmental experiences and encourages them to build confidence,” said Suzanne Richards, director of Youth Development and Special Needs Programs.

“Children will experience a sense of achievement by participating in our day camp program,” she said.
