For the third year in a row, 308 participated in the Halo Awards, a prestigious award ceremony that honors high school students' achievements in all aspects of theater.

Over 60 high schools from across the State of Connecticut participated this year. Both 308's fall drama Our Town and the spring musical Chicago received a total of 14 nominations in their categories for both onstage and off-stage achievements.

At the Halos senior Evelyn Sload took home "Best Performance by a Featured Actress in a Classical Play" for her performance in Our Town. Senior Grady Allen won "Best Performance by a Leading Actor in a Classical Musical" for his role as Billy Flynn in Chicago.

The Chicago Ensemble won the very prestigious "Best Chorus" award. Senior Mackenzie Lauture took home the "Gypsy of the Year" award, which is given to a chorus member nominated by the director from the school awarded Best Chorus. Finally, Sophomore Jackson Wood won a scholarship at the reputable Molinari Dance Studio in New York City.

Additionally, this year's musical, Chicago, took part in the second-ever Stephen Sondheim Awards, presented in part by Broadway Method Academy. The Sondheims are the gateway production into the National High School Musical Theater Awards show, also known as the Jimmy Awards. For Chicago, Nikki Carlo took home Best Costume Design.

"The students of Theatre 308 have a lot of be proud of!" said Tim Sorensen, this year's musical director. "The students in both shows are tremendously talented and work extremely hard. It's really an honor to get so much recognition when compared to other tremendous programs across the state."

To add to the celebration, Theatre 308 students were asked to perform at both award ceremonies. At the Halo Awards, students performed the opening number of Chicago and received a standing ovation. At the Sondheim Awards, Theatre 308's own Evelyn Sload and Henry Steinthal performed with other students from all across the state in the opening number.

Thanks to a nomination for Best Musical, the cast of Chicago was also featured in a performance of "Velma Takes the Stand." Finally, Sophia Talwalkar, Perrin Trask, and Jackson Wood helped close the magnificent night as part of the closing number.
