Lockwood-Mathews Mansion Museum's Halloween tours, offered this year on two weekends, Oct. 18 to 20 and Oct. 25 to 27, will focus on ghost sightings as they relate to the house during the 19th century and more recently, and the compelling ghost stories that are part of Connecticut's legends.

Visitors may run into the mansion's ghosts, who are haunted by the darker memories that are part of the rarely told history of the Lockwood and Mathews families.

These ghosts will wander throughout the Mansion, but only during our very special and spooky Halloween tours.
