The play, written by Mary Zimmerman, melds classic and contemporary elements, based on the poet Ovid's collection of Ancient Greek and Roman myths. "Metamorphoses" will have three performances, all at 7 p.m., from Thursday to Saturday, Nov. 17 to 20, in the high school Auditorium.

Live music composed by DHS student John Raskopf accompanies the storytelling.
The play is set in and around a pool of water, a symbol of reflection and transformation.
