In 1963, Walter passed the bar exam and became a lawyer, working first in the private sector and then for the City of Stamford. He also was a veteran of the armed forces, a member of the Noroton Volunteer Fire Department, an avid photographer, and an amateur magician, who performed mentalism in the mid-70's, as "The Baffling Burrows."

He held membership in a number of magic clubs, including the International Brotherhood of Magicians No. 97, the Society of American Magicians No. 33, the Danbury Tophatters No. 131, and an independent magic club in Bridgeport, the New Magicians Association. He supported the future of the magical arts as a member of the Society of Young Magicians No. 42.

Many knew Walter as "the guy with the camera," always snapping photos at meetings and then giving away the prints to the members. He also enjoyed attending magic conventions.

Walter always enjoyed a good debate or discussion. A Civil War history buff, he gave talks on the subject at Wilton Meadows. He also spoke about great magicians and performers of the past, those whom he'd met or researched, staying involved in the magic clubs until his passing.

There will be a Broken Wand Ceremony performed at a later date with and for Walter's friends as a memorial to Walter's Life.
