

What Parents Need to Know About Discussing Sexual Harrassment, Assault and the #MeToo Movement with Boys and Girls

Author : David Gurliacci

Categories : Darien Depot, Parents & Kids

Tagged as : #MeTooJessica Feighan

Date : March 10, 2019

The conversation around the #MeToo Movement seems to sometimes pit boys against girls, men against women, and a good portion of boys and men aren't quite sure where they fit into the conversation. Some may want to be part of change and not know how to get involved.

A discussion for boys and men, girls and women about the issues surrounding the #MeToo Movement will take place Thursday, March 14, from 7:15 to 8:30 p.m.

— an announcement from the Depot Youth Center

Others may be angry or frustrated with the way boys and men are clumped into a category that sheds a negative light. This could leave parents of sons and daughters struggling with how to have this conversation.

In this discussion, we're going to talk about strategies to bring everyone together as a school, neighborhood, community, etc. to overcome sexual violence, regardless of how one identifies according to gender.

About the Speaker

Jessica Feighan Director of Education, Outreach, and Operations at The Center for Sexual Assault Crisis Counseling and Education in Stamford was inspired to join The Center after a bystander intervention incident in which she was a key eyewitness.

Darienite

News for Darien

<https://darienite.com>

Jessica was subsequently honored by The Center and joined the volunteer hotline service for a year before becoming a fulltime staff member in 2017.

Parent Talk is an informal discussion that is part of the Depot's Speaker Series.

Please RSVP here, on Eventbrite.com — space is limited.